

Managing Time

Bil Keane said, “Yesterday’s the past, tomorrow’s the future, but today is a gift. That’s why it’s called the present.”

1. What are your biggest complaints with “time?”
2. Managing our time has to do with priorities. What are some of your biggest priorities, the absolutes of each day? What gives you satisfaction or grief at the end of the day?
3. Solomon once wrote, “There is a time for everything, and a season for every activity under the heavens: a time to be born and a time to die, a time to plant and a time to uproot.” What do you think Solomon was saying? How could his perspective on time be helpful? Solomon concludes his thought about time saying, “God has made everything beautiful in his time.” What do you think he means by such a statement? Do you agree or disagree? Why?
4. Do you think the painting by Zhang Zeduan has anything to do with the idea of time and productivity? If you were painting something on the subject of time, what would you paint? What would your message be?

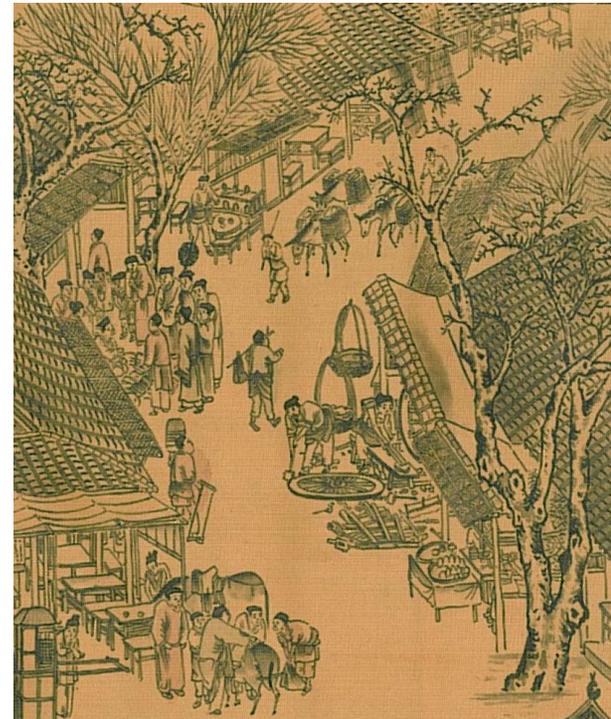

Zhang Zeduan. Part of the Qingming Scroll, c. 12th century. 25.5 x 525 cm. National Palace Museum, Beijing

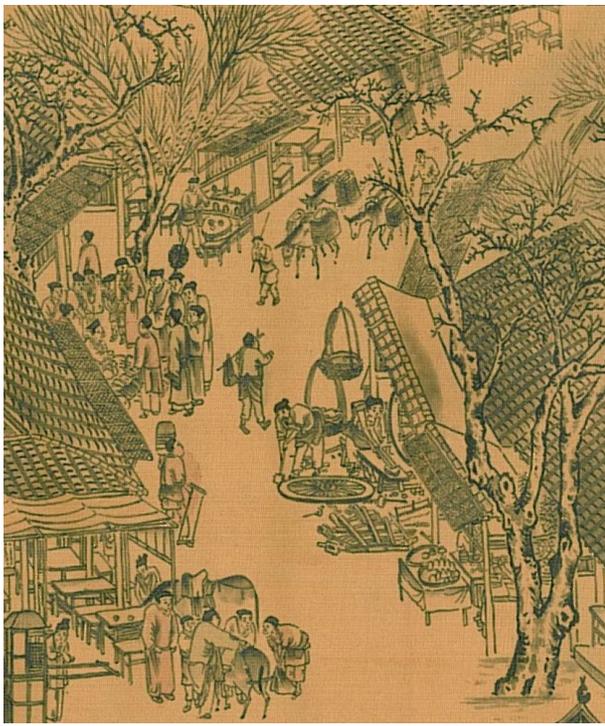

Managing Time

Bil Keane said, “Yesterday’s the past, tomorrow’s the future, but today is a gift. That’s why it’s called the present.”

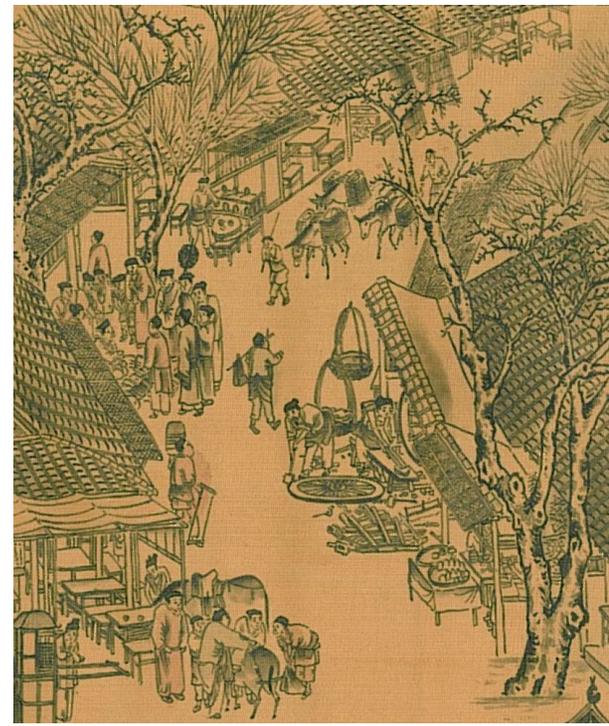

1. What are your biggest complaints with “time?”
2. Managing our time has to do with priorities. What are some of your biggest priorities, the absolutes of each day? What gives you satisfaction or grief at the end of the day?
3. Solomon once wrote, “There is a time for everything, and a season for every activity under the heavens: a time to be born and a time to die, a time to plant and a time to uproot.” What do you think Solomon was saying? How could his perspective on time be helpful? Solomon concludes his thought about time saying, “God has made everything beautiful in his time.” What do you think he means by such a statement? Do you agree or disagree? Why?
4. Do you think the painting by Zhang Zeduan has anything to do with the idea of time and productivity? If you were painting something on the subject of time, what would you paint? What would your message be?

Zhang Zeduan. Part of the Qingming Scroll, c. 12th century. 25.5 x 525 cm. National Palace Museum, Beijing

Zhang Zeduan. Part of the Qingming Scroll, c. 12th century. 25.5 x 525 cm. National Palace Museum, Beijing

Zhang Zeduan. Part of the Qingming Scroll, c. 12th century. 25.5 x 525 cm. National Palace Museum, Beijing

Managing Time

Bil Keane said, “Yesterday’s the past, tomorrow’s the future, but today is a gift. That’s why it’s called the present.”

1. What are your biggest complaints with “time?”
2. Managing our time has to do with priorities. What are some of your biggest priorities, the absolutes of each day? What gives you satisfaction or grief at the end of the day?
3. Solomon once wrote, “There is a time for everything, and a season for every activity under the heavens: a time to be born and a time to die, a time to plant and a time to uproot.” What do you think Solomon was saying? How could his perspective on time be helpful? Solomon concludes his thought about time saying, “God has made everything beautiful in his time.” What do you think he means by such a statement? Do you agree or disagree? Why?
4. Do you think the painting by Zhang Zeduan has anything to do with the idea of time and productivity? If you were painting something on the subject of time, what would you paint? What would your message be?

Managing Time

Bil Keane said, “Yesterday’s the past, tomorrow’s the future, but today is a gift. That’s why it’s called the present.”

1. What are your biggest complaints with “time?”
2. Managing our time has to do with priorities. What are some of your biggest priorities, the absolutes of each day? What gives you satisfaction or grief at the end of the day?
3. Solomon once wrote, “There is a time for everything, and a season for every activity under the heavens: a time to be born and a time to die, a time to plant and a time to uproot.” What do you think Solomon was saying? How could his perspective on time be helpful? Solomon concludes his thought about time saying, “God has made everything beautiful in his time.” What do you think he means by such a statement? Do you agree or disagree? Why?
4. Do you think the painting by Zhang Zeduan has anything to do with the idea of time and productivity? If you were painting something on the subject of time, what would you paint? What would your message be?